

Breaking the puzzle of probability problems.

Student is required to create a simulation method to determine the actual probability of a puzzle and then extend this analysis through related analytics. You may utilize tools such as Excel, Python, MATLAB, or any other computer language/software of your preference for this task.